

Module 11

Introduction

- Fatigue and isolation Nutrition, lifestyle and fitness Cleanliness
- Maintaining professional composure
- Handling difficult customers, client so suspect Choosing appropriate use of force
- Positional asphyxia Excited delirium Justifying an action

Arresting someone is depriving them of their freedom. When a person is arrested / he is under the physical control of another. Arrest does not require the use of force. Merely asserting one's authority as a security guard may be enough to deprive certainness on soft heir liberty

