

Areas Under Which You Can Be Arrested

- Communicate: The security officer should communicate with the parties involved in the incident, using calm and clear language
- Call for backup: If the situation is escalating or the security officer feels that they cannot handle the situation alone, they should call for backup from other security officers or the police.
- Maintain control: The security officer should maintain control of the situation and ensure that everyone involved remains safe.
- Report the incident: The security officer should make a report of the incident, including any actions taken, and submit it to their supervisor or the appropriate authority
