

Licences – general rules

- The following rules apply in respect of licences and licensees:
- A licence shall clearly indicate what type of licence it is.
- A licence shall clearly indicate the date on which it expires. A person may be issued more than one type of licence, but, regardless of the licences a person holds, the person may not act as a security guard and a private investigator at the same time.