

1.2 Public and Private Security:

Module 1

There are two primary divisions of the security function in Canada which are public and private security. While traditionally they have both served different functions, today they are increasingly working in a corporative environment protecting people and assets across the country.

- 1.2.1 Public security:
 - Public security agencies are those groups that perform a security function but are funded exclusively by governments in the interest of public service.