

Module 9

Tactical Communication

It is important to adjust a communication style to accommodate a situation or an audience. Security guards should be able to adjust their behaviour and demeanour accordingly. Assisting an injured individual will not require the same communication tactics as controlling a rowdy crowd. Effective communication also ensures that security guards can be assertive without being confrontational.

