

Module 8

Privacy Legislation in Canada

Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA) sets out how private sector organizations may collect, use or disclose personal information in the course of commercial activities. Individuals have the right to access and request their personal information organizations may have collected on them.