Emergency Level First Aid

Emergency Level First Aid training and certification is an essential component of the foundational training program for security personnel. The benchmark for this certification is aligned with the St. John Ambulance Emergency Level First Aid course. Following the successful completion of this Emergency Level First Aid course, security guards should possess proficiency in the following areas: